We're in the process
of moving on . . .

. . . In many ways . . .

. . . And to
many places.

Often we stop
to hang around —

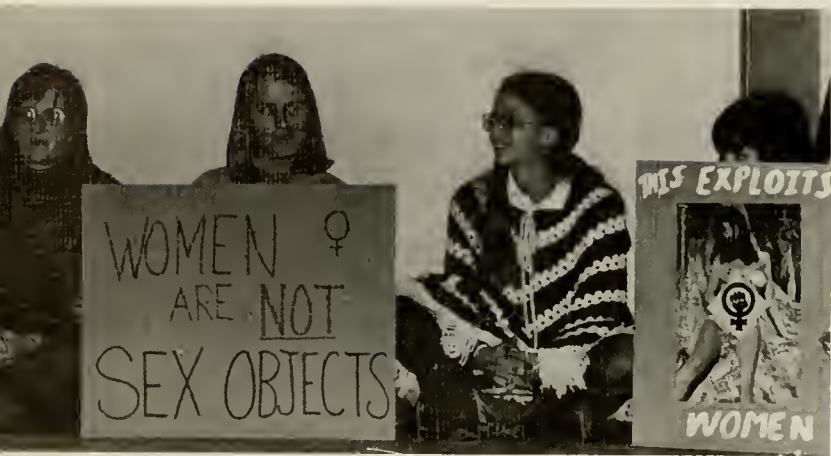

Or take time out
to get involved.

But move on!
There's women to be saved,
Frisbees to be thrown . . .

And plenty
of kids
to get to know.

There's always
new faces to meet . . .

. . . And lots of hell
to be raised.

Booking
is attempted
at times . . .

. . . But the stomach usually wins out.

Sometimes
you can't move too
far . . .

. . . And other times
you can't move
at all.

Then there
are times
we cheer
for the best movers
to hit WVU

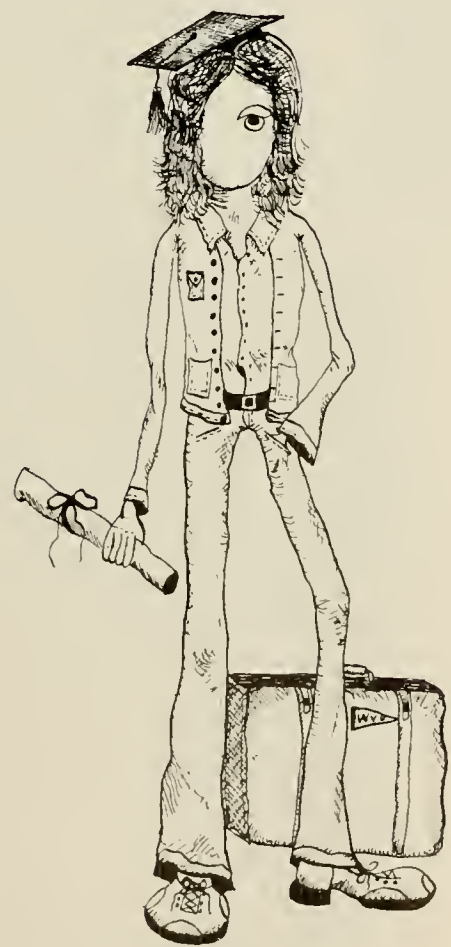

Move on and on . . .

Well, You Finally Made It . . .

Sandy Allbaugh Chosen

"Women were born liberated and they don't have to prove it by mass demonstrations," said Sandy Allbaugh, Miss Monticola. "I don't think that anyone can generalize that all women should either stay in the home or pursue a career. The decision must be made by the individual herself."

Allbaugh, a sophomore speech pathology and audiology major, was chosen Miss Monticola during an interview based on poise, personality, appearance, and achievement.

Let's Go Mounties . . .

Football Has a Hard, Winning Season

For Coach Bowden and his Mountaineer team, the 1973 season was one of determination. Their 6-5 record does not even begin to tell the whole story. Football, as in any sport, is a game of skill, dedication and a certain amount of luck. "Under the circumstances, we did O.K.," according to Coach Bowden. "Going into the season, we were hoping to win more ball games. However, there was no way to foresee the loss of Ron Lee, Chuck Fiorante, Ade Dillon, John Harcharic, Marcus Mauney and Charlie Miller, just to name a few. Had someone told me before we'd lose these men, I could have predicted a 6-5 record."

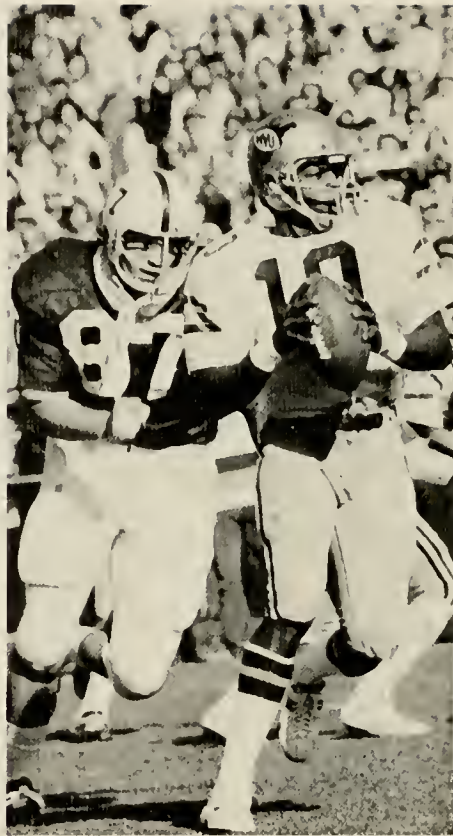

Danny Buggs:

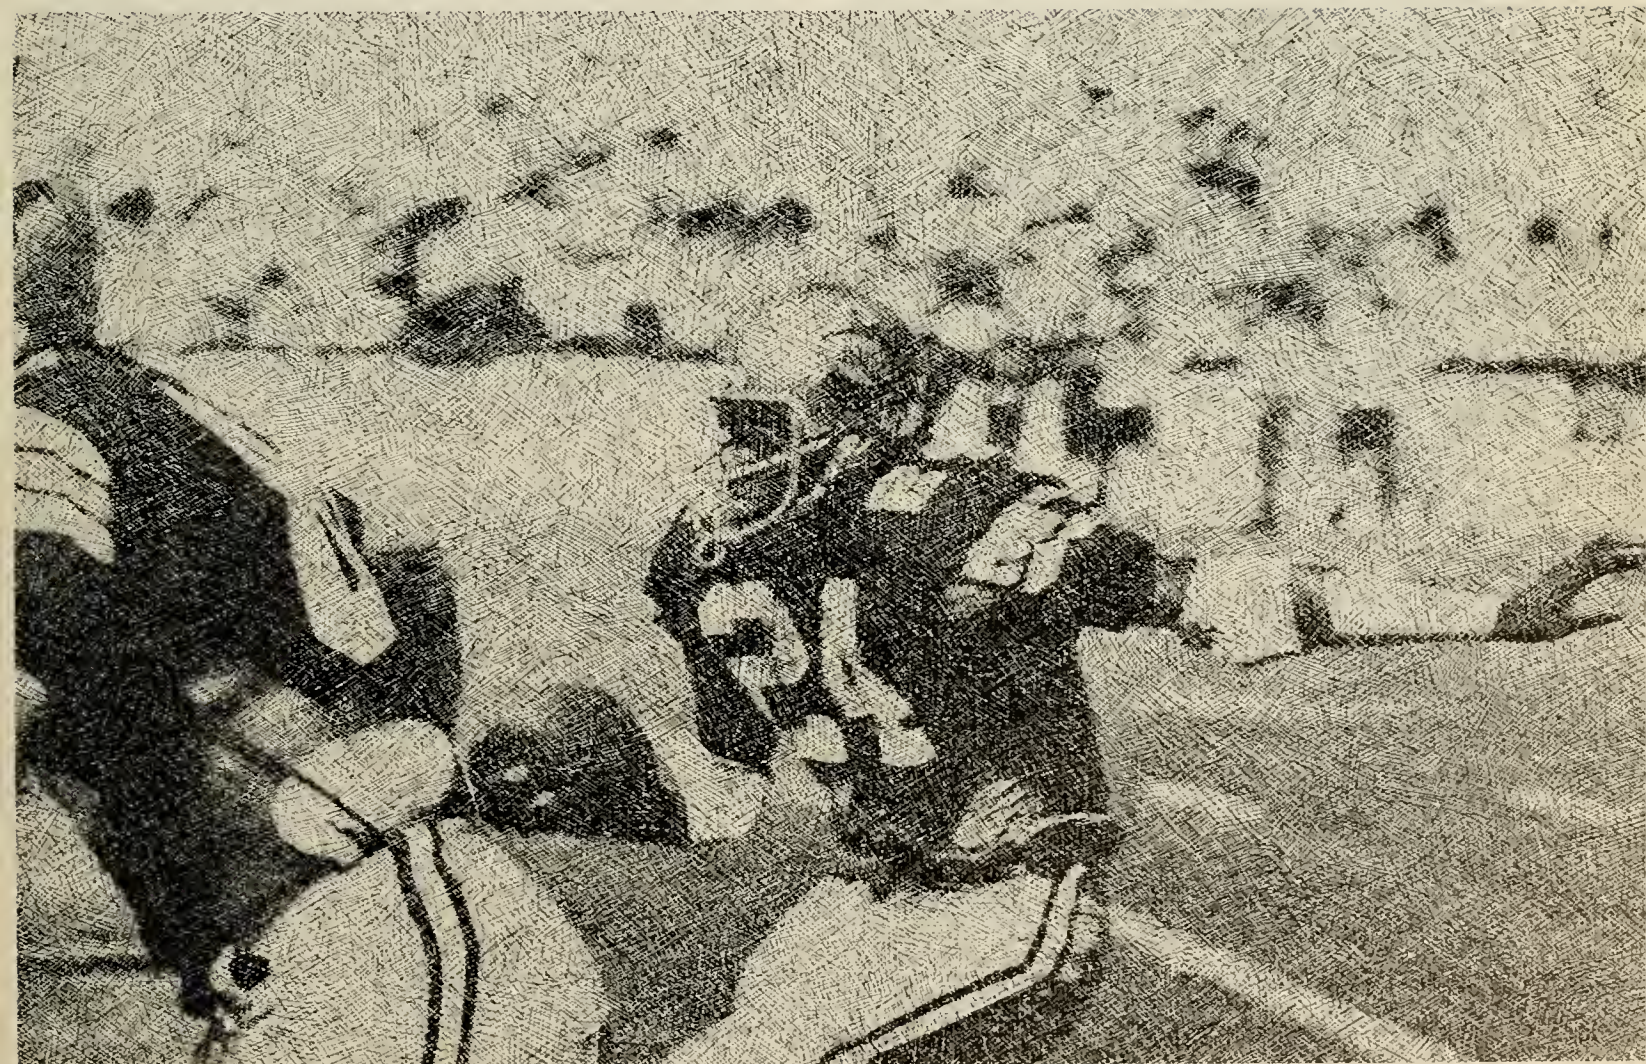

All East First Team

Kodak First Team All-American

AP Second Team All-American

Seventeen starters will return next season as compared to the five who returned this year. "When you only have four or five men returning, you are working with the nucleus of a team," said Bowden. "It's strictly a building situation. If the starting lineup for the Maryland game had played all year, we could have won eight or nine games."

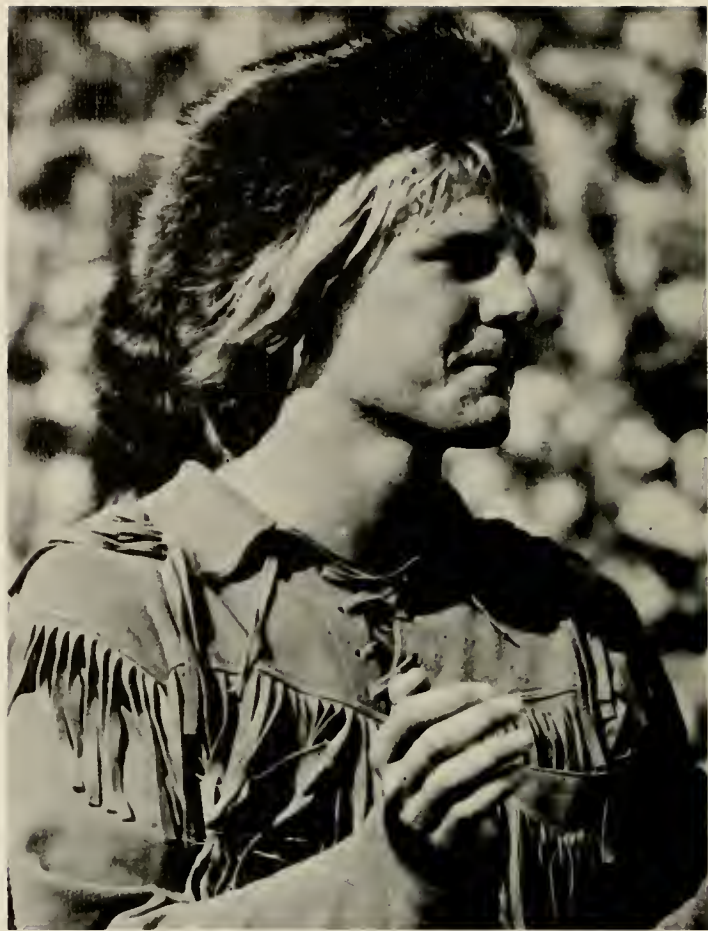

Bowden felt that next year he'll be better able to coach such players as Ben Williams. "Ben came in under fire and to start the way he did — the burden was tough," Bowden said. "Our kids are trained well. That's one thing about our football team, it has character and it is built under fire. These boys show their character by coming back and winning three out of four ball games when they are down."

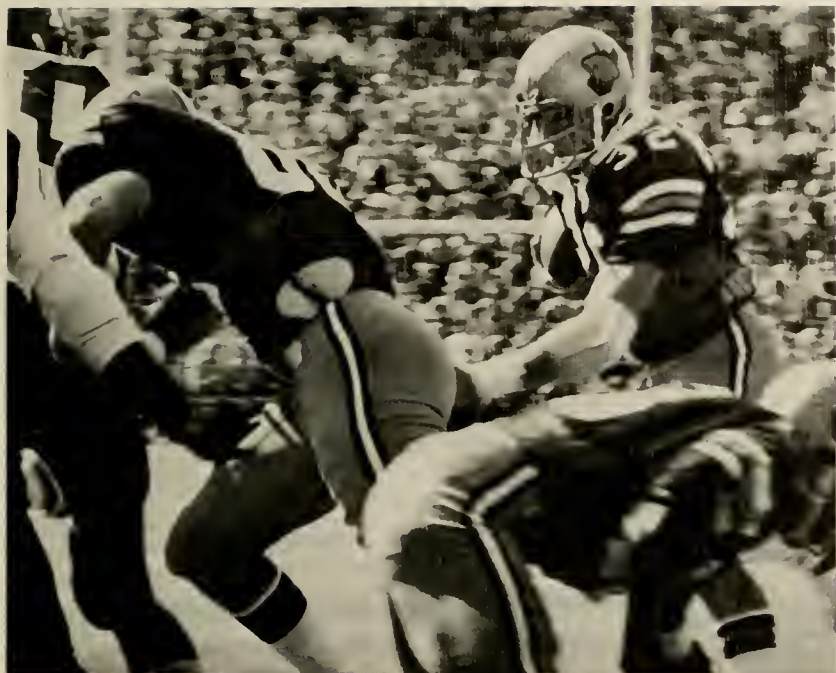

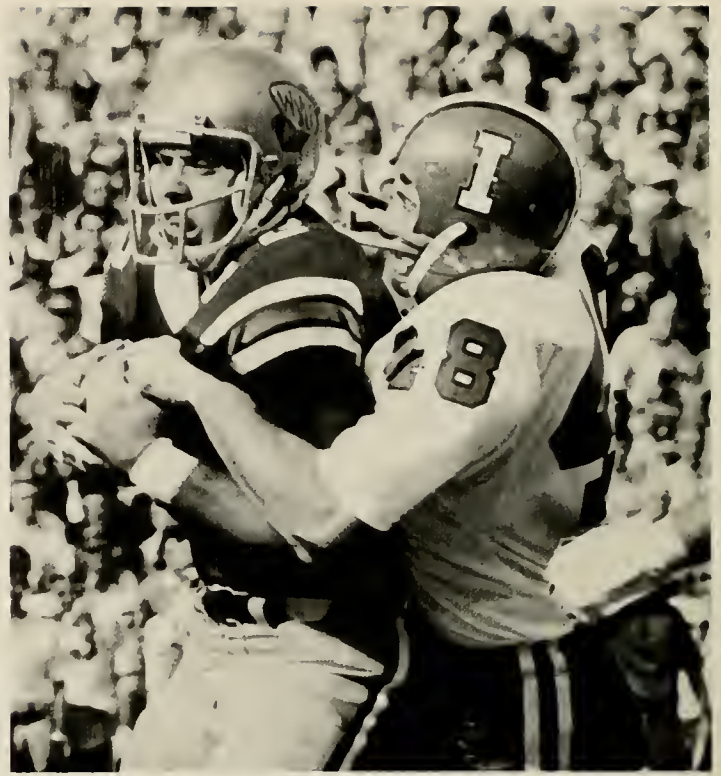

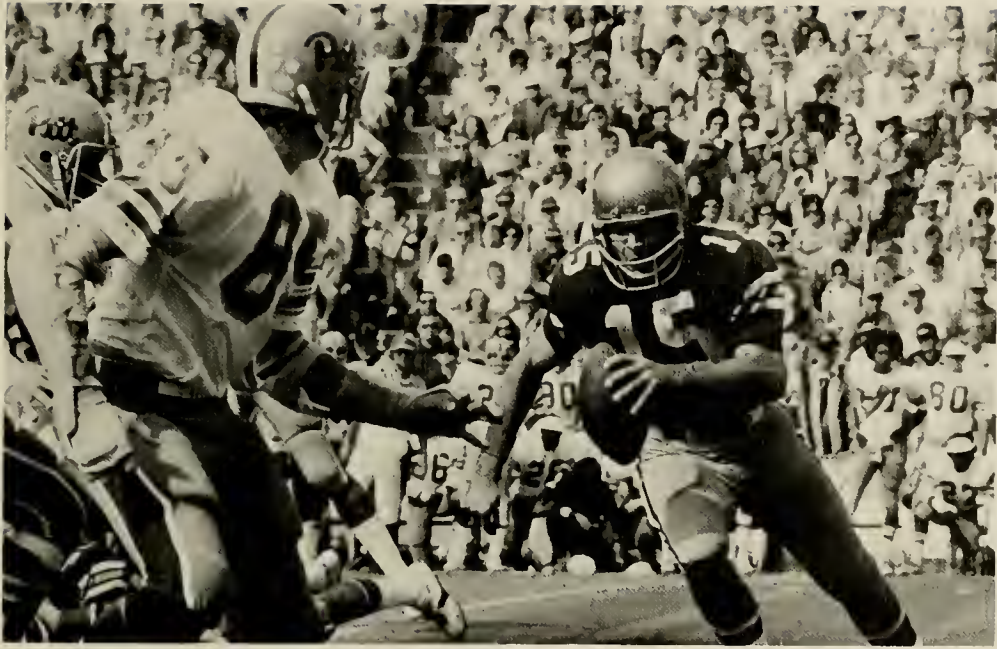

"A lot of people would have quit," Bowden commented. "We lost a lot of battles, but we won the war. We had a winning season."

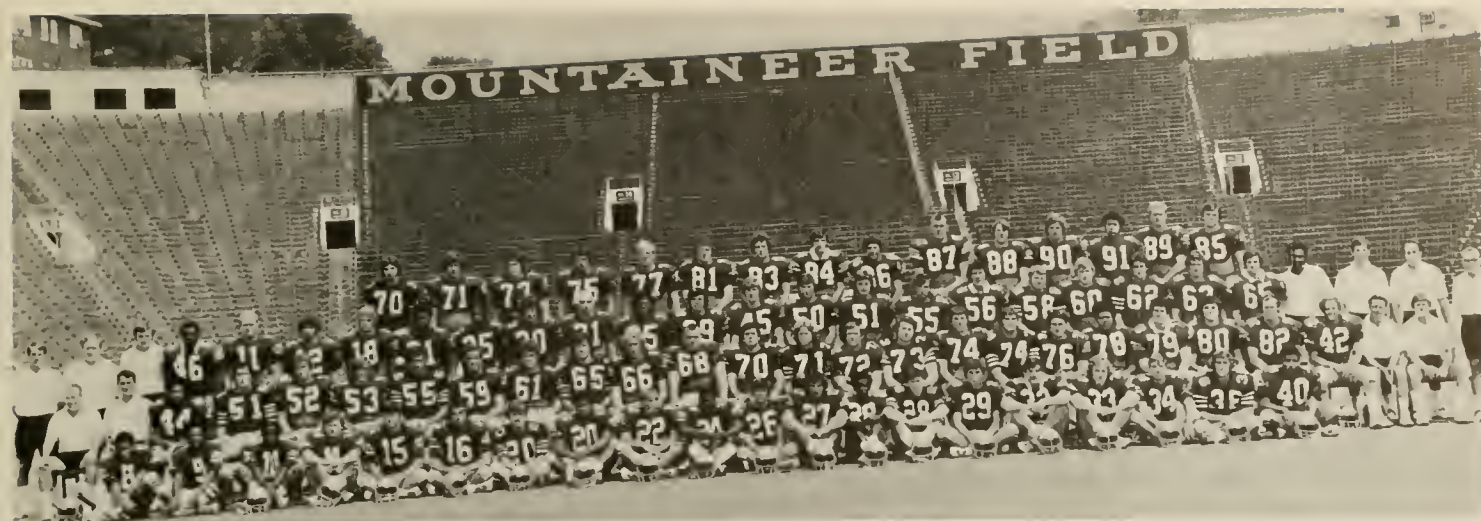

Commenting on the attitude of the WVU fans, Coach Bowden pointed out that it's typical for people not to want to lose. "Everyone feels our business is to win," Bowden said. "Especially in West Virginia, where we're the only school playing teams like Penn State and Pitt, we're looked upon as a major team. People come up with all kinds of excuses for losing. They claim all kinds of crazy things like the players are drunk, the coaches are drunk, the players hate the coaches or the coaches hate each other. But when you coach you expect it and have to accept it. These are problems all over the country."

A Gratifying Season

The 1973 soccer season was a satisfying one for Coach John McGrath and his team. The booters put together a winning tally of 10-1-3 and at one time, the team was rated ninth in the nation. Pre-season speculation for McGrath were below his team's accomplishments.

"Looking at the people I had recruited, the people coming back and the people I had lost, the best I thought we could do out of 14 games was to win eight and lose six," McGrath stated. "When we ended up 10-1-3, it was very satisfying. I feel that we played the way we were expected to."

"This team has been the best soccer team I've ever coached," McGrath stated. "They've been the easiest to work with and the most enjoyable. They went out onto the field with the purpose of winning in mind and not to seek individual goals. As far as team work is concerned, this has been my best team."

for McGrath and Team

"It was discouraging to lose to So. Florida in the Southern Regionals. I think we were a little over confident for that game. After So. Florida scored, we lost a little confidence and the pressure was tremendous," McGrath stressed.

McGrath found out that his team had been nationally ranked after the Frostburg game. "I knew right after the game, but I let the team eat and after we got back on the bus, I announced that we were ninth in the nation. Everyone went crazy for about 10 or 15 minutes," McGrath said. "It was pandemonium!"

"The team played with a basic game in mind," McGrath concluded. "It was great to work with these guys."

Basketball Has Up and Down Season

"There's nothing wrong with being number one if you have what it needs to be number one. I knew what it took, but we didn't go that route," Coach Sonny Moran said sitting in his barren gold and blue office. The room had been cleared in preparation for its new occupant.

"The name of the game is recruiting and scheduling," Moran said. "Look at what surrounding schools have. Recruiting is a three-ring circus and a rule or two is violated. We don't offer the fringe benefits that are violations."

Moran felt that leaving the Southern Conference really hurt the WVU team. Eleven out of thirteen years the team won the conference and then went on to the NCAA's. "We'd get knocked out in the first game, but the people were happy," Moran said.

Now WVU was playing NCAA teams during the regular season. "Instead of being the team everyone looked up to in the Southern Conference, we were looking up at all the teams that were bigger than us. We were not playing from the same deck," Moran said. He also said that a problem arose when West Virginia fans did not accept this.

"The only thing that upset me was that people didn't realize what we had," Moran claimed, referring to the 1972 season. "It was a fleeting thing. We were nationally ranked and in a period of two weeks, it was gone. Adversity hit us when we had worked so hard."

Disappointment characterized the 1973 season. "We played ball clubs that had their entire teams back intact," Moran said. "We lacked the total support of everybody. Better TV and radio coverage were needed."

"We were very competitive and only the coach and the players can appreciate that," Moran continued. "To a fan, a loss is a loss. But we know when we've done a good job. Only Notre Dame beat us badly."

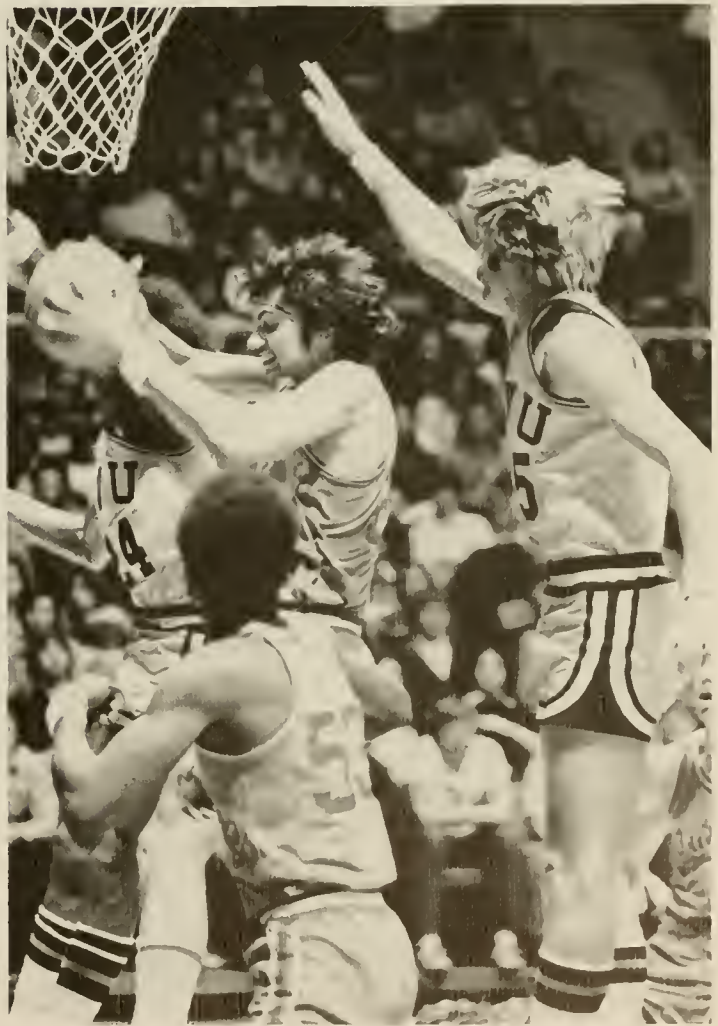

Moran emphasized that a realization had to come. "If Thorne and West didn't jump at the job, maybe some people will realize what is lacking. I'm not trying to burn any bridges," he said.

Moran did not want to treat West Virginia as a stepping-stone. "We're leaving a good nucleus and we're leaving the program in better shape," he stressed. "What is needed is an indication of where the team is going. Goals and policies must be consistent. If you want to be number one, you've got to put into the program what is needed. There must be complete and total support by everybody."

"I wish the very best for the program," Moran concluded.

Wrestlers Break Even With 7-7-1 Record

The wrestling team felt the effects of the gas shortage when their meets with George Washington and St. Francis were canceled. The teams had no other means of transportation and consequently, Coach Nedeff felt that the team could have won both meets if played.

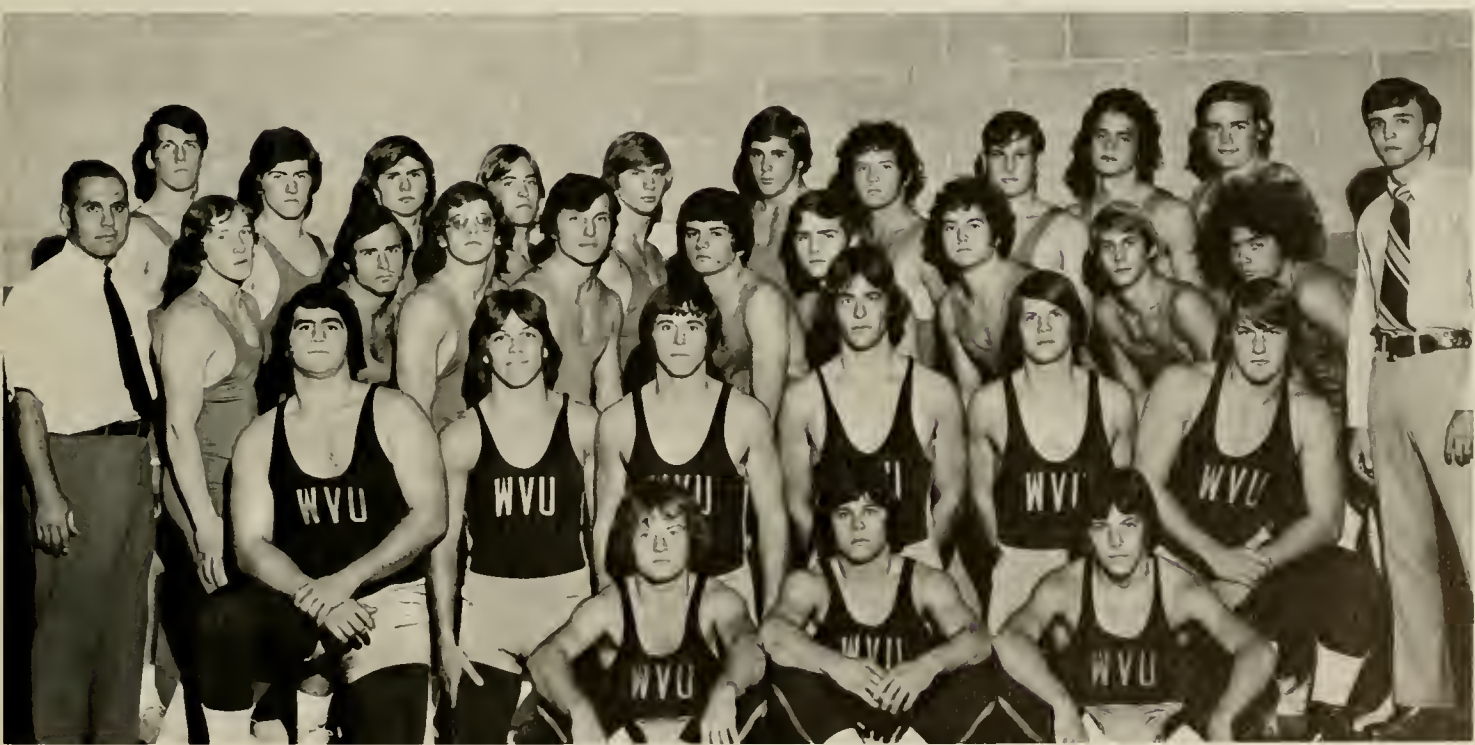

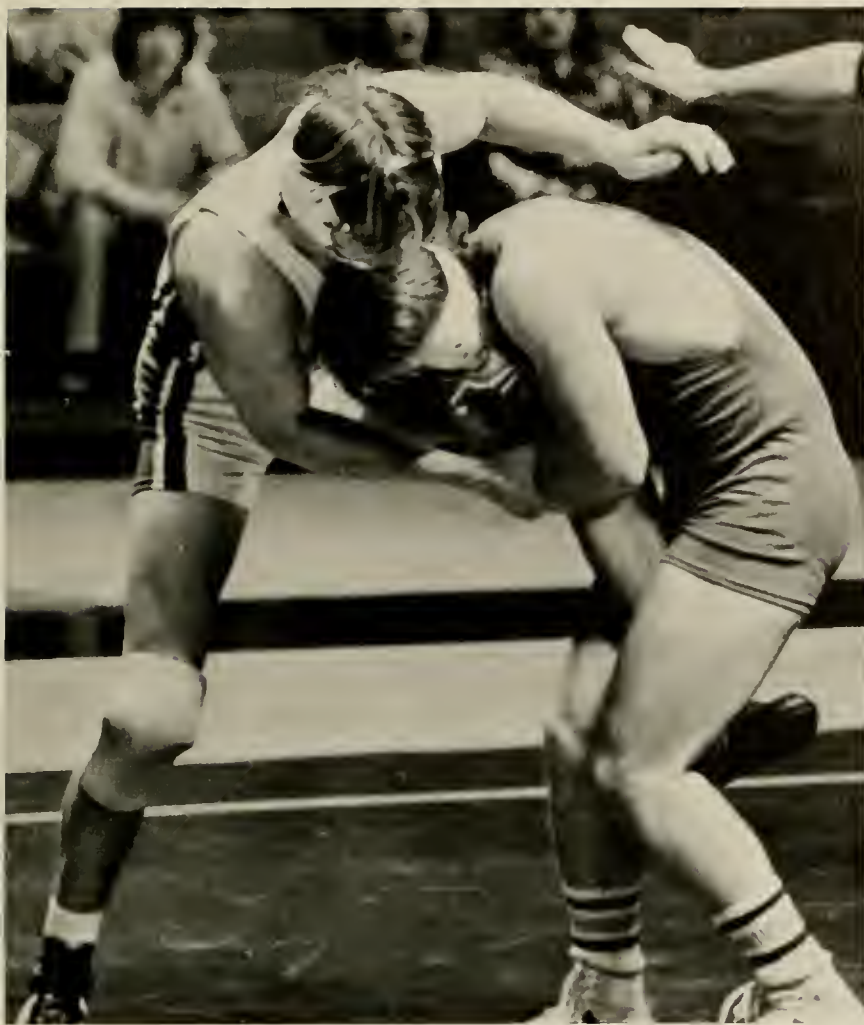

Injuries were a problem, too. Craig Hillegass, for example, missed the first seven meets due to a motorcycle accident. "He never got around to being in real good shape, so for the second half of the season he never fully recovered," Nedeff explained.

Nedeff felt that the team was an overall good one. "Dale Murdock did a great deal of the coaching," he said. "He's been a real credit to our program."

Overall, the team will lose the following seniors: Frank Zatta (heavyweight), who had a "pretty good year," Dave Snyder (190 class), who helped "even though he never had a strong wrestling background," and Garret Breakiron (158 class). "Right now we need more strength in the heavyweight class," explained Nedeff. "We have more depth in lightweight."

For the 74-75 season, Nedeff predicted depth in all classes to produce a strong team.

Three hours a day, seven days a week, the women's gymnastic team diligently worked out. Coach Nanette Schnaible was pleased with her young team and believed that in a few years each event would be a strong one.

"Our strong areas were floor and beam, whereas bars was our weaker point," said Schnaible. "The equipment hurt us a lot. At least the girls were used to competition and were used to being judged," she added.

The men's gymnastic team started the season with a handicap, since five men were lost who had worked key apparatus. "The pressure was on our all-rounders for depth," said team manager Gene Diaz. "They were forced to work every event."

"Our key was experience," Diaz continued. "Our five seniors knew that the chips were down, so they worked hard."

In his eyes, the team had matured from last year, with each man doing his own part. "We have two people who could compete on the national level: Pete Longdon and Rick Hill," Diaz said. "Others have proven they could reach that level, but they weren't consistent."

At the beginning of the season, the team set a hypothetical score that they hoped to reach. They nearly did when they beat Pitt by a score of 149.45.

"It was a realization for everybody," Diaz said. "We started with a handicap, but by the time for Southern, we knew we could do it."

Men's Gymnastics Overcomes Handicap

Gilson reported that the season was up to his expectations. "Charlie Miesner did a particularly good job this year and we'll be looking forward to having him work again next year," he said.

The swimming program hoped to draw in some new swimmers through the anticipation of the new pool. "I'm sure it will be an even bigger asset to our recruiting program once the pool is finished," Gilson emphasized.

Women's Tennis Nets 4-3 Record

Last year, the tennis team was unofficial. In their first year as a recognized varsity team, the women netters gained good experience, according to Coach Thorne.

"Unfortunately, we did not have much publicity," Thorne said. "But, I was pleased with the team. B'Ann True, for example, went undefeated for nine straight matches."

For the next season, Thorne hoped more girls would turn out to play.

Rifle Team Aces Increased Schedule

"I was very pleased with the end results. They worked hard and earned everything they got," Sgt. Major Bobby Timms said of the members of his rifle team.

In an increased schedule of 12 shoulder to shoulder matches, the team managed to win $500 worth of trophies. One rifleman, Mark Sellaro, tied the national record with 299 points out of a possible 300.

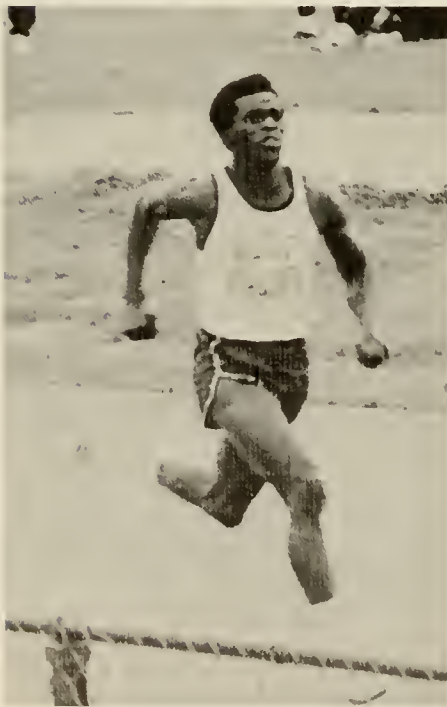

"We were ranked nationally," Timms elaborated, "and we hosted the National Rifle Association sectionals. I had figured on being number one in the nation this year, but our first team was disqualified from the sectionals."

Timms explained the honor system in rifle competition. "There is nothing to stop the reporting of illegal scores, but my own team told me that there was a violation and I notified the referee myself. Our team members ought to be congratulated. The disqualification hurt us, but they could have stood back and I'd have never known," he said.

Campus Has 'Quiet Start'

The atmosphere of campuses varies over the years with trends in educational methods, fashions and political issues continuously changing. The fact that a university administration remains a constant part of the university structure often enables it to gauge these passing campus atmospheres.

President Harlow described the beginning of the 1973 school year as the "quietest start" since he has been president. Students today, he felt, were much more concerned with educational problems than they had been in the past few years. "There were not very many ready-made causes on campus this year," Harlow explained.

Salaries, Parking, Renovation Part of Administrative Concern

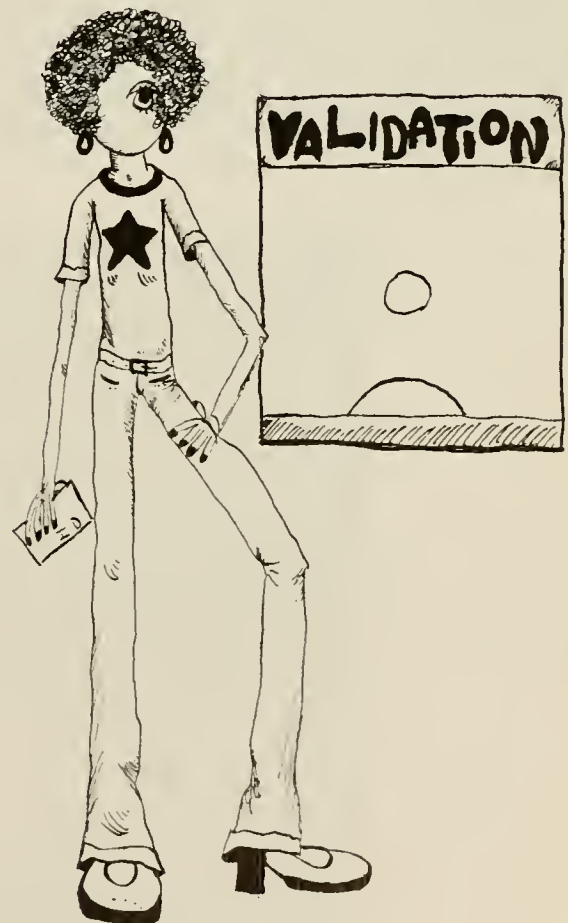

Representative of the 1973-1974 school year was the effort to upgrade those troubles the administration had been facing for the past few years. President Harlow, for example, reported that the administration was "finally getting to keep salaries moving up." Obtaining faculty office space and handling both traffic problems and the continuous pressures on parking were overriding administrative concerns.

The renovation of older structures will get the most administrative attention in in the coming years. "The biggest capital improvement in the next ten years will take place on the downtown campus," Harlow explained. The inside of Martin Hall and the outside of Woodburn Hall marked the beginnings of this improvement drive.
